

DRAW MODEL IN VALUES

Select your preferred model from Studio Assignment 1.

Ask yourself some questions about it. How does it create a mood? What are its important features? How does it work? How could it work better? How could it be worse?

In your journal, make a group of drawings of your model. The goal of these drawings are to Explore it, Play with it, Explain it, etc.

Explore it,
Play with it,
Explain it,
etc.

- Choose just the one. The one you are thinking about the most.
- Look at it. Look at it from all different angles.
- What can you learn from it?

- Analysis is asking questions and seeking answers.
- Successful analysis results from asking many high quality questions. seeking to answer them, figuring out more questions to confirm your answers, and doing this over and over and over again.
- high quality questions look to challenge assumptions, seek to discover the why and how of phenomena.

- Do more than one drawing on a page.
- Include a variety of drawing types eg perspectives, axonometrics, plans, sections, elevations....etc
- Think about composing your drawings on the page.
- Annotate the drawings
- Think about what medium would be best for your drawing. color pencil, pen, watercolor, graphite, marker, paint, ink.....
